A HORRIBLE AFFECTION.

ALTON (Ill.) Dec. 2.—A horrible case of suffering from a rare affection has come to the notice of your correspondent. A young physician at Fosterburg, in this county, was recently called to attend a patient who was afflicted in a singular and terrible manner. The sufferer, a young German woman aged 22 years, had been troubled for some time with chronic catarrh, which had become very offensive.
A large fly, resembling the blue-bottle fly, attracted by the character of her disease, had, while she was asleep in the daytime, deposited its eggs or larvae within her nostrils. The result was soon apparent. Her nose and face swelled to an enormous size, and she suffered intense pain. When the doctor was called in large worms, three-fourths of an inch long, had commenced to drop from her nostrils. They were of the variety known to "screw worms," from their resemblance to a screw and manner of borrowing. Their moves could be distinctly traced under the skin below the eyes and in the forehead. The doctor placed the woman under the influence of opium and succeeded in extracting the intruders to the number of eighty without making use of the knife, although some of the worms bored their way out through the tissues.
The case was skillfully treated, and after the worms had been expelled the woman rapidly recovered. When convalescent and able to walk about the house, another fly of the same species suddenly struck the patient within the nostrils.
The intruder was almost instantly expelled, and it was hoped no harm had been done, but in three or four days the old symptoms again manifested themselves, and much more seriously than before. A physician at Alton, who had successfully treated a similar case several years before, was this time called in to assist the doctor who had previously treated the case. It was found necessary to use the knife, and incisions were made in the sides and across the bridge of the nose, and over three hundred screw-worms were extracted. In a few days the patient recovered and is now in good health, but her nose is, of course, disfigured by the operation. The patient was in great agony before the worms were extracted, their burrowings under the skin being exceedingly painful.

Both physicians placed large numbers of the worms in earth, under glass, and succeeded in hatching out a quantity of flies, which, as has been stated, resembled blue-bottle flies. They have many of the worms and flies preserved in alcohol.
The worms were very tenacious of life, resisting for some time the action of powerful acids, and seeming rather to enjoy, for a time, a bath in diluted alcohol. None of them were less than three-fourths of an inch long, and, perhaps, one-eighth of an inch wide.

A well-known physician of Collinsville, in this county, treated a young man affected in the same manner about a year ago. In this case, when the doctor was called in the patient's brain had become affected, and he did not recover.
A physician in Texas, writing to the American Entomologist, reports several cases of the same kind in that State.
One lady had 200 screw-worms extracted from her nose; another patient, a Mexican boy, over 200 from nose and head; another, a little girl, over 250 from the nose and throat. These three all recovered; but an unknown German in Dallas was found, September 24th, in an out-house afflicted with screw-worms in hands, feet and root of spine, and his case was fatal.

The flies are evidently attracted by the presence of fetid matter, and lay their eggs therein, which fecundate with astonishing rapidity. The Texas newspapers also report great ravages of these screw-worms among cattle and hogs. The insects lay their eggs in the nostrils of the animals or within wounds or lacerated places. They also infest the slaughterhouses and meat markets of Texas, the larva piercing the meat and filling it with worms.

Dr. Hembert sent some specimens of the worms and flies obtained from his Fosterburg patient to the Smithsonian Institution, and O. V. Riley, chief of the bureau of entomology, in acknowledging their receipt, said he had not before heard of the presence of this fly so far north. The three cases occurring in this county of human beings affected in this terrible manner show that the screw-worm is not confined to the South. The worms, upon falling to the ground from the nostrils of human beings or from animals, instantly bury themselves in the earth, and come forth in a few days full-grown flies. The importance of destroying the larvae at once when their presence is discovered, is thus evident.

A FEW SIMPLE REMEDIES.

A teaspoonful of charcoal in half a glass of warm water often relieves a sick headache. It absorbs the gases and relieves the distended stomach pressing against the nerves that extend from the stomach to the head.

Charcoal forms an excellent poultice for wounds and old sores. It is also invaluable for what is called ground itch.
It sweetens the air if placed in shallow dishes around the apartment, and foul water is also purified by its use.
For bruises or sprains bathe the part in cold water until you get ready a de-coction of warm-water and vinegar.
When the herb is fresh gathered, pound the leaves, wash with vinegar, and bind on, and when the herb is dry put it in the vinegar, and let it boil a short time; then bathe the bruise with the decoction and bind on the herb.

There is nothing better for a cut than powdered resin. Get a few cents' worth, pound it until it is quite fine, put it in a cast-off spice box with perforated top, then you can easily sift it on the cut.
Put a soft cloth around the injured member, and wet it with water once in a while; it will prevent inflammation or soreness.

When one has a bad cold and the nose is closed up so that he cannot breathe through it, relief may be found instantly by putting a little camphor and water in the center of the hand and sniffing it up at the nose. It is a great relief.

Hoarseness and tickling in the throat are best relieved by the gargle of the white of an egg beaten to a froth in a half a glass of warm, sweetened water.
Hemorrhage can be immediately relieved by administering a lump of sugar wet with vinegar.

A simple and harmless remedy and prevention for persons suffering from ear sickness is a sheet of writing paper worn next to the person directly over the chest. It is highly recommended and seldom fails.

Buy at any drug store one ounce of camphorated oil and 5 cents' worth of chlorate of potash, and whenever a sore-ness appears in the throat put the potash in a half tumbler of water and gargle the throat, then rub the neck thoroughly with the camphorated oil at night before going to bed, and also pin around the throat a small strip of woolen flannel.
This is a cheap and sure remedy for sore throat.

If persons suffering from severe headache would tie a handkerchief tightly around the temples they would find relief by so doing in a very short time.

Hemorrhage of the lungs or stomach is promptly checked by small doses of salt.
The patient should be kept as quiet as possible.

A good remedy for warts and corns: Drop a little vinegar on the wart or corn, cover it immediately with cooking soda or salaratus; let it remain ten minutes, repeat several times a day for three days and the warts and corns will be gone.

ETHEL MAY.

Southern planters are talking of adopting a new cereal called millonaise, introduced by the Rev. H. H. Pratt, of South Carolina, for some time a missionary in South America. It is found in Columbia in large quantities, and forms the common food of the working classes there, and is also used for working animals.
Mr. Pratt has been successfully growing it in South Carolina for several years.
The cakes made from it, ground into meal, are preferred to corn meal bread, while in nutritive qualities it is said to be superior to wheat. The plant is allied to the Sorghum and Guinea corn families.
It has great capacity to withstand a drought.

When an obituary notice reads: "He further seek his failure to disclose," it means: "Whisky killed him."—[Texas

DOWN WITH MONOPOLIES

Parties have been enquiring of us, "How it is that we sell our goods so cheap?" The answer is, "That we buy our goods for Cash, and sell for Cash." This is a satisfactory condition for the purchasers as well as to ourselves. "Quick Therefore be at ease and we will remain with you till the last man leaves Pioche. As a good many have been complaining about our leaving this camp for California, as we intended at first, but for the kind patronage which we have received in the last four months from the people of Pioche and its vicinity, we came to the conclusion to stay here and share its fate. Our staying here will indeed be to the purchasers advantage, as our motto is, "Live and Let Live." Do not let yourselves go astray, provided you miss our place. Consequently the calamity is now over, for we will stay here to please the public. Monopoly must be wiped out so long as we are here, and be convinced of the truth.

We will sell goods on the same basis as we have done heretofore. Goods sold strictly for cash
